[COAST RECORD.]
DR. VINCENT HANGEDHis Crime the Murder of His Wife.*The Man Shows No Fear on the Gallows,*But Makes a Speech After Smoking a Cigar.*Royster Secures a Verdict Against the Bee—The City of New York—Evans on Trial at Jackson, Cal.—The Curtis Case.*By Telegraph to The Times.
FRESNO, Oct. 27.—(By the Associated Press.) There was a busy time at the jail here this morning. Many anxious persons were seen waiting about the building long before 9 o'clock, and the jail officers were besieged by numerous applicants for admission to the execution.Dr. Vincent passed the night somewhat restlessly, but partook of a hearty meal at 9 o'clock, and remarked: "Who wouldn't be hanged after having such a good breakfast?" The condemned man seemed to entertain the hope that Gov. Markham would grant him a commutation of sentence until the last moment.*Promptly at 11 o'clock the doors to the enclosure were thrown open, and the invited persons were permitted to enter. It was but a few minutes till the space seemed entirely occupied, but still they came crowding in.*Vincent appeared on the scaffold at 11:30 o'clock, and was pinioned by Deputy Timmins. When asked what he wished to say, he responded by naming the Sheriff and deputies for their kind treatment toward him. He further said: "To my friends God bless you; to my enemies, God forgive you."*The noose and black-cap were then adjusted, and, after a short prayer by Dr. Collins of the Congregational Church, the drop fell and exacted 12 o'clock. The victim never moved, quivered after the drop fell, and at 12:30 p.m.; his pulse had ceased to beat. He was publicly pronounced dead by Dr. Maupin at 12:13, and at 12:15 was taken from the scaffold in a coffin by Hall & Wren, undertakers, of this city. The black-cap and rope were both enclosed in the coffin.*About six hundred people witnessed the execution. Vincent ascended the gallows smoking a cigar, which he kept lit before the drop fell. Some who were invited to stand by were so anxious to see the execution that they took advantage of the trees-tops adjacent to the inclosure, and some witnessed it from the top of the Court-house, which overlooks the jail-yard.*The scaffold on which Vincent was hanged had already been used for five persons, three of whom had murdered women. One, an Englishman, had murdered his wife in Los Angeles.*The crime for which Vincent today paid the death penalty was one of the most notorious committed in this section, and has but recently found its place in the annals of crime. Not content with torturing to madness the chosen companion of his bosom by a life of debauchery and extreme brutality toward her and stung by the disgrace of being cast out of his home for his unorthodox, he determined to murder his beloved woman whom he had a few short years before sworn to love and protect. The boldness with which this murderer executed his terrible deed has made him the subject of much comment.*On a bright afternoon, December 18, 1890, armed with two small pistols containing prussic acid and the other water, and with a revolver in his pocket, Vincent rode in a hack to the house which had been closed against him. On his arrival there he demanded an interview with his wife, which was granted. Upon his refusal to withdraw the complaint she had filed against him for divorce, he handed her a pistol containing prussic acid, commanding her to drink, stating that he would drink the contents of the other.*This being refused, he deliberately drew his revolver and shot her four times in quick succession. Killing her almost instantly. An officer was near the time, and the murderer was arrested, while still bunting over the dying form of his wife on the floor. He was hurried to the jail and summary justice thwarted, for in a few minutes more was crying for Vincent's blood. A strong guard placed around the jail has all that prevented his being hanged that night.*The excitement soon subsided, and law was allowed to take its course. It was tried in Judge Holmes' department of the Superior Court in the following March, and on the 27th day of the month the jury brought in a verdict guilty of murder in the first degree. In April 8, 1891, Judge Holmes passed the sentence of death upon him, and set aside the date of his execution at May 1, 1891. Then commenced the real legal battle, which continued more than two years, and which he lost. The result was that he would not pay the death penalty. What had been his fate on as many as any one could tell, and until the very last days of his existence did he show signs of weakness and remorse.*The entire defense was based on the grounds of insanity, and between forty and fifty witnesses were called to establish this fact. The court was convinced that Vincent was insane, and rendered a verdict condemning him to undergo punishment for the highest crime known to the law.*AN EXTRAORDINARY CASE.*he San Andreas Constable Tells How He Bumboozled Evans.*JACKSON, Oct. 27.—(By the Associated Press.) The extraordinary Evans trial, for the murder of Express Messenger Tovey, revealed more sensational evidence today. Constable fasterson of San Andreas was called to testify in the defense. He had taken a conspicuous part in the efforts made to get the alleged confession from Evans while in San Andreas.*He admitted that two slips were printed specially for the purpose of influencing Evans. He got them from the Sheriff's office. Sheriff Thom and County Graves were there when he took them. He told them what he was going to do with them. The slips were handed in to Evans on July 28, before he made a confession. On July 28, he gave Evans a small quantity of whisky, also two small cooked opium pills, and a little powdered opium. Sheriff Thom knew all that was going on.*The witness also stated that the defendant had given him a letter and asked him to give it to Frank Rooks. He did not take it to Rooks, but afterward gave Evans a letter purporting to be an answer and signed it Frank Rooks. This answer said: "No use answering further questions. All is well between us." He never took*Evans's letter to Rooks, nor received a letter from Rooks to give to Evans. Arguments are in progress, and the jury will get the case tomorrow.*ROYSTER MUST PAY.*He Gets a Nominal Verdict Against the Sacramento Bee.*SACRAMENTO, Oct. 27.—(By the Associated Press.) The libel suit of George P. Royster against the Bee, which commenced on Tuesday, was given to the jury this morning. The action was brought because of the Bee's charge that Royster had fixed juries, and was, therefore, not fit person to be appointed Deputy County Clerk under Hamilton, the candidate at the last election. The jury sat for a half hour, retiring at that time, at 12:45, for a verdict for the Bee, and four for small damages for Royster.*A compromise verdict was finally brought in against the Bee for $200. This is the second verdict against Royster, and the damages under $300 forces him to pay all costs and the defendant's counsel fees as well.*A stay of proceedings was granted for ten days. Sensational scenes were introduced during the trial in the courtroom of Thomas H. Reynolds, ex-Deputy Secretary of State, to the effect that Royster had fixed for him a jury in his trial in 1887, drawing twenty names which he had selected.*THE CITY OF NEW YORK.*A Huge Spur of Rock Driven Through Her Bottom.*SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 27.—(By the Associated Press.) The steamer City of New York, which went ashore off Point Bonita last evening, was this forenoon lying easily in smooth water, and the hope was entertained that she might be pulled off if the weather continued favorable.*The sharp spur of rock upon which she ran was driven entirely through the vessel's bottom in such a manner that it might be to inadvisable to get her off until entirely lightened of all her cargo.*Pilot Johnson, who was in charge of the steamer when she went ashore yesterday, has disappeared and cannot be found. He left the stranded vessel on the spur, and then called for assistance, and it is thought to be hiding somewhere in San Francisco. He has been suspended from duty by the pilot commissioners.*It is thought, late this afternoon that the New York cannot be hauled off the rocks, and that she is certain to be a total loss.*ONE SUBPOENA SERVED.*Mrs. Curtis Will Be Asked to Tell What She Knows.*SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 27.—(By the Associated Press.) Mrs. Curtis, wife of M. B. Curtis has been served with a subpoena to appear as a witness in the cases of McManus and Dunn, charged with bribing jurors in the Curtis case. McManus and Dunn will have a hearing before the Superior Court on November 1.*Diligent search has been kept up for M. B. Curtis, who is also serving as a witness, as well as E. B. Morehouse, one of the jurors. The latter was traced to Tulear, where he boarded the southbound train and announced that he was going to El Paso. He disappeared, however, when the train arrived at Los Angeles. It is thought he is now in Paso No. Nine, Mexico.*ONE SUBPOENA SERVED.*Mrs. Curtis Will Be Asked to Tell What She Knows.*SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 27.—(By the Associated Press.) The Marvin Finch Committee from the southern part of the State have set their hearts upon locating their building on the ridge behind and above the Horticultural building. They imagined, however, that the clump of pines near by would be a detriment to that location and have been warring with Superintendent MacLaren of the park about cutting them down.*CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—(By the Associated Press.) Associated Charities.

Los Angeles is a benevolent city, and has, perhaps, as many charitable institutions and practical Christian workers as any city of its size in the country.

As stated by an office of one of them, we have thirty charitable societies in Los Angeles, and, outside of the purely benevolent associations, the churches are aiding in helping the penniless unemployed, and doing what they can to relieve cases of actual penury.

The gospel union has long been known to the general public for its beneficial charities. It has fed thousands, and found work for many more. The Young Men's and the Young Women's Christian associations have been practical and helpful, and are doing a noble work that many a wanderer from home and many a resident of our own city will be thankful for through all their future, while among the later Christian organizations, of which the community at large knows but little, is the Holiness Faith Mission, located at No. 949 East First street, which is now giving out two hundred meals daily, and sheltering each night not less than one hundred men from the ranks of the unemployed. Since the beginning of their work, a year ago, they have given 15,850 meals to hungry ones—vast army, indeed, of suffering humanity.

The Ladies' Benevolent Society has also long been prominently identified with the charities of Los Angeles. It has sought out the needy in every direction, and always stood ready to aid all in benevolent work. It has made a name for itself in this regard.

But, as has been pointed out in these columns, the rapid growth of our city, and the unusual amount of destitution existing at present call for new methods and concerted action in the distribution of our charities. Hundreds of penniless and unemployed people are pouring into our State from other States of the Union, and no small proportion of this number are looking to Los Angeles as the place of their destination. They are looking to it as a haven of plenty. Their fuel they expect to find in the warmth of its perpetual sunjoyed. Upon this phase of the subject, Mr. Pope says in his circular:

"The succession tax is founded on the broadest principles of equity. I maintain that the wealth possessed by every individual has been created directly or indirectly by the help of others, and therefore he owes to others, or generally speaking, to the public, obligations which he ought to repay.

"This is particularly true in the United States. Every citizen, whether he be rich or poor, is equal in the eye of the law, and has behind him, for the protection of his right, the entire power of the nation. It is, therefore, no more than just that every person who accumulates property should pay for the protection that the State secures to him and his possessions.

"The wages of the chenille workers at Philadelphia have been reduced 40 per cent or nearly one-half. The world-famous print cloth mills at Fall River, Mass., are again talking of shutting down as a consequence of the continued light demand for their goods, notwithstanding their employees are now working on a reduction of from 8 to 20 per cent. in their wages. The Granite-cutters' National Union claims that the eight-hour law is not being observed on government buildings at Lewiston, Me., and Washington, D. C. The "change" ordered by the voters of the nation last November is making itself manifest all along the lines of labor, and will steadily grow worse as long as the free-trade party is in control of the government.

It is not surprising that the Evans and Sontag drama has been refused permission to perform at several places in the San Joaquin Valley. With such an idealization of train-robbing and murder on the boards it is no wonder that we hear of three train-robberies in one day.

The northern citrus belt has challenged the southern belt to a competitive exhibition of citrus fruits at the Midwinter Fair. Our growers ought to be careful about shipping any of their best fruit to San Francisco until the fair opens.

From the fact that Capt. von Helm of the late Newbern has been placed in command of another vessel it is evident that the steamship company does not attach any importance to the seasonal rumors in regard to the loss of the Newbern which were current.

[SOCIAL RECORD.] IN SOCIAL SPHERES.

Rev. A. W. Edelman left yesterday at San Bernardino, where, tomorrow evening, he will act as officiating minister at the wedding of Miss Estelle Ancker of San Bernardino and William Marks of San Francisco. A large number of prominent society people from here will be present on the occasion, as both parties are well known and have a host of friends in this section of the State, as well as in San Francisco.

Judging from the number of invitations, and from the preparations which are being made thereto, the event will be particularly notable, and one long to be remembered in our neighboring towns.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

About fifty young people assembled Thursday evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Barnes, corner of Sixteenth and Bond streets, it being the twenty-first birthday anniversary of their son, Eugene.

Conversation and games were indulged in until a late hour, when refreshments were served.

Entertainments were: Misses Lindsey, Cornelius, Fannie and Blanche Lucas, Oxyb, Chaffin, Addie and Josie McCauley, Newby, Artie and Maud Hinckley, White, McCreary, Bowen, Eggleston, Van Treess, Brodgen, Kittie and Lulu Murray, Barnes; Messrs. Lindsey, Cleve, Whalen, Joe and Eddie Canfield, Corben, Dixie, Stidic, Nelson, Herbert, Hull, White, Le Count, Lucas, Fred and John Hutton, Parker, Shreve, Lou and Will Galen, Green, Bledsoe, Williams, Elliott, Barnes and others.

The presents received were numerous and valuable.

At a late hour the guests departed, wishing many happy returns, and voting the evening very enjoyable.

WILL WED GOTHAM'S DAUGHTER.

Yesterday's types transformed "E. C. Deni" into "E. E. Deni." The society item should have read as follows:

E. C. Deni left Wednesday afternoon for the East. He will visit Chicago and several of the large Eastern cities, including New York.

Among the notable persons who have been attracted to California as a winter resort is Mrs. Gen. Grant, who is going to spend the summer in Santa Barbara. Before long it will be quite the thing for Eastern people to winter in this section. This would be much more sensible and patriotic than for them always to go to the south of Europe and spend their money in a foreign country, where their children pick up ideas that do not tend to make them model American citizens. By the way, how about a first-class tourists' hotel for Los Angeles? The same suggestion was made by Augustus Jacobson, in a work entitled "An Ounce of Prevention," which was published last year, and reviewed at considerable length in these columns. The difference is that Mr. Jacobson proposed to use the money thus raised in providing practical education for all the children in the country, and the establishment of manual training schools.

It is suggested that the tax should commence with estates valued at $10,000, upon which 1 per cent. should be raised, increasing gradually to 3 per cent. on $5,000,000, and after that 1 per cent. more on every additional $5,000,000. Such a system of taxation as this is not without precedent. England, in 1780, established a tax on legacies, and in 1853 the succession-tax law was enacted. In the United States a collateral succession tax law went into force in 1864, but that act has since been repealed, in common with other internal revenue laws. In New York there is a collateral succession tax law of $5 per hundred dollars. This tax yielded, in 1890, $1,117,637, and it is estimated that at least $2,000,000 will be received from this source by the State during the present year. A similar law in Pennsylvania brought to the State Treasury, in 1891, the sum of $1,227,302. The collateral succession law receives comparatively few estates, because this tax is simply on the devolution of property on death—or direct descendants or pre-owners.

Thus the law adopted by Connecticut, in January, 1889, is as follows:

"All property conveyed by will or by death or intestate to other than to father, mother, husband, wife, lineal descendant, adopted child, the lineal descendant of any adopted child, the wife or widow of a son, the husband of the daughter of decedent, or some charitable purpose or purpose strictly public, 5 per cent. of its value above the sum of $1000, for the use of the State."

The Massachusetts law of 1891 is substantially the same with the exception that the amount taxed is $10,000 and over. The rate is 5 per cent., and charitable, religious and educational bequests are exempt.

It is pointed out that this succession tax would not fall on the poor, and that those whose estates amount to $10,000 can well afford to give $100 to the State in return for all the protection of its laws which have enabled wealth to be accumulated and enjoyed. Upon this phase of the subject, Mr. Pope says in his circular:

"The succession tax is founded on the broadest principles of equity. I maintain that the wealth possessed by every individual has been created directly or indirectly by the help of others, and therefore he owes to others, or generally speaking, to the public, obligations which he ought to repay.

"This is particularly true in the United States. POSTAL POINTS.

Los Angeles Not Getting Her Rights.

Entitled Under the Law to General Free Delivery.

An Important Matter Which Has Been Overlooked.

Thickly Populated Districts Which are Not Served by Carriers—No Increase in the Force Since 1888.

It is a fact not generally known, except by the unfortunate sufferers, that at least one-third of the people of Los Angeles are deprived of the benefits of the free postal delivery service. It is also a fact, which has been overlooked in some unaccountable manner, that this entire city is entitled, under the law, to the benefits of free postal delivery, and the only reason that the Evans and Sontag drama has been refused permission to perform at several places in the San Joaquin Valley. Orange-growers Alive to Organization Advantages.

Some Matters Relating to Father Throop—Warm Weather—W. R. C. Social—Personal Notes of Interest—Brevises.

astic meeting of local orange-growers was held Friday afternoon at the Board of Trade rooms. Among those present were Mr. Chamblin of Riverside, D. M. Smythe, James Smith, Col. Picher, M. H. Weight, W. T. Clapp, Hon. A. G. Throop, George F. Foster, Messrs. Stanton, Daniels, and others.

Mr. Chamblin explained that it would be necessary to form a local organization to send delegates to the Los Angeles meeting today (Saturday) and read a form of by-laws adopted by the local organization at Pomona.

On motion, Mr. Chamblin was nominated chairman of the meeting by Col. Picher, and so chosen.

On motion, a committee composed of P. M. Green, John Allin and M. H. Weight, was appointed to make arrangements to hold a meeting of fruit-growers, to be held on Wednesday, November 1, for the purpose of establishing such organization and electing officers for the ensuing year.

Messrs. Smythe and Clapp were invited to speak at the general meeting in Los Angeles this (Saturday) afternoon.

Something like the requisite amount of interest was manifested at the meeting, and there is now no good reason to doubt but that local organization will be perfect on the day of the meeting. There is, however, more general interest on the part of the orange-growers of this district, who have heretofore manifested only a lukewarm interest in the proceedings. There is everything to gain and nothing to lose by organization.

FATHER THROOP'S WEALTH AND INFLUENCE.

The following appears in the current issue of the Whittier, the bright paper which is published at the Whittier State School:

"One of the young men, who was formerly a pupil in this school, and who is now out in the world and doing well, wrote to the superintendent a few days ago, saying: 'I was in Pasadena one day last week, and Father Throop, the president of the Polytechnic Institute, invited me to his home, and I had the pleasure of dining with him and his honorable family. We do not blame any young man of being proud of a special attention from as worthy a man as Father Throop. While this country is full of men who are devoting their every effort to squeezing money out of the people, and using every means of accumulating wealth, it is a great relief to see a man like Father Throop, who is devoting his whole life to the welfare of his people, and in so doing honor that is more important than his influence, toward building up a generation of independent, self-supporting young men.'

ALIVE AND DOING GOOD WORK.

Those interested in the affairs of the Pacific Gospel Union state that the organization is still alive and doing good work. The local branch was established about ten months ago. A great deal of good has been done among the especially among strangers. More than twelve hundred free nights' lodging have been furnished, and nearly two hundred meals have been paid for at restaurants. The poor of the city have been looked after to some extent. Many articles of clothing have been furnished. Mission-meetings have been held in various localities, which have resulted in the conversion of about fifty people into the Christian religion, some of whom are now active workers in the cause. A little more financial encouragement and a larger attendance at the meetings is that is needed to still further increase the extent and efficiency of the work.

THE PICTURE PURCHASED.

The bill of sale, covering the purchase of the portrait of Father Throop, has been signed by Artist Jenkins of Los Angeles, and the picture is now the property of Pasadena. The proposition to hang it in a prominent position in the new building, which plan of transaction will be consummated with appropriate ceremonies in about a month, on the date fixed for Father Throop, day, on which occasion everybody will vie in doing honor to that estimable philanthropist and friend of education.

Crops and Markets.

The rain which fell during the past week was heavier than usually occurs for the first precipitation of the season. Some damage was done to raisins still in the trays, and to grain and hay curing in the fields. The rain will enable farmers to begin preparing soil for seeding and make the irrigation of the orchards necessary. This rain, although it promises to insure a good early crop this season, is not altogether welcome to all our farmers, especially to those who have large stocks on hand. They fear that the prospect of a good crop will depress prices still further.

Reports from the East note a light inquiry for new-crop raisins, but a good movement of old stock.

Shipments of prunes have been heavy this season, especially from the northern part of the State. For the first two weeks of October the shipments from the Santa Clara Valley amounted to over three hundred and fifty tons. The demand at present is reported to be comparatively light. Eastern dealers are going slow in purchasing dried fruits, merely taking enough to supply consumption, and awaiting the future of the market.

As noted last week, shipments of celery grown in the peat lands of Orange county will soon begin. Celery of the finest quality is grown in that section. It is believed by dealers that this celery, which is now being shipped to Kansas City, will, to a great extent, take the place of celery from Michigan, which is the leading celery region in the United States.

The orange shipping season will soon begin. Reports as to the size of the crop are very different, and nothing of an entirely authentic character has yet been received. The organizations which have been formed are getting ready for the season's business, and the result of the new departure is watched with much interest. It is reported that the Southern California association has appointed H. K. Pratt, an ex-commission man formerly of Riverside, and many other places, as agent of the association in Chicago. If that is so, there are many who will think that a mistake has been made. Mr. Pratt has figured in a number of places as a commission man, and so far as heard from his operations do not appear to have given satisfaction to his clients. It is to be hoped that the organization will start out right, so that the new system may receive a thorough and impartial trial.

It is announced that the Sonora orange crop is ready to be shipped to the United States, buyers from Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City having purchased the fruit some time ago on the trees. Sonora oranges are growing in popularity. According to dealers this year's crop for export will, it is said, amount to over 100 carloads, as compared with seventy-nine carloads last year. New oranges from Salt River Valley groves were in the Arizona market on the 14th of this month.

Fruit-growers and Commission Men.

The following letter has been received:

"COVINA, Oct. 23, 1893.—(To the Editor of The Times-Mirror.) Dear Sir: I am sorry you did not see fit to publish my letter, or at any rate some of the letters we have doubtless received in criticism of the one you inserted of Edwin T. Earl.

Your paper and others in Southern California profess somewhat to support the fruit-growers, who form a large and important community in this country, and it certainly think that when you publish my letter, no one can say as important as that published for Earl. It is due to the growers to have at least some replies published to it.

I call it an important letter, because Earl implies that the growers are not business men, and are entirely dependent upon the favors of their opinions, and also to make the statements he does in face of ample proof to the contrary.

As a matter of fact, that many growers have forgotten more than Earl ever learned, and to business is proved by the way he criticizes him. These men are not likely to take any count of such a sneak letter as the one published; still there are many among us who have no business ability whatever, and these might be influenced by slyious words to which no answers are given.

It is in the interests of these people that in fairness you ought to publish both sides of the subject, and not confine yourself to the simple, specious statements of one commission house who appear, to me to have been doing the most harm to the citrus industry (particularly) of this country.

I may be premature in writing, as you may intend to publish some answers (not necessarily mine) next week. At any rate we hope so.

The impression left by Earl's letter to the public would be that he had done his level best last season for his patrons, the oranges being as a matter of fact, many he has landed in debt, while some, more fortunate, have netted through his experience (?) a few cents per box. I am, sir, yours fairly,

LEONARD CARTER.

We have not seen any letter from Mr. Carter, or from any other person on the subject mentioned. The statement of Mr. Earl, to which he refers, was an advertisement, and was paid for as such.

Mr. Carter has no right to intimate that The Times is or has been one-sided, prejudiced and unjust in matters affecting the fruit-growers and commission men. A glance through the columns of this agricultural department since the first of the year should be sufficient to amply disprove such a charge. Any communication of reasonable length, with facts, and not too much impregnated with personal abuse, is always welcome, and never fails to find room, in some shape, in these columns. The trouble with so many of these communications is that they are chiefly devoted to calling names, and our space is too valuable for that purpose. This department is conducted in the interest of the fruit-growers, and has never failed to advocate any measure which we believe would further the prosperity of the industry, but we must be excused from joining in the assertion which is recklessly made by some fruit-growers that all commission men are thieves and scoundrels. Perhaps it is because The Times declines to take such ground that Mr. Carter charges us with being prejudiced in favor of the commission men. Such sweeping charges as we have referred to do no good, but much harm, because they blind people to the true facts, and make it more difficult to arrive at a satisfactory settlement. There are all sorts of people—good, bad and indifferent—among the commission men, as well as other classes of business men. A correspondent recently asserted that he did not know there was a single reliable firm of nurserymen in Southern California. Of course such a sweeping charge as this cannot be proved, and invites criticism from those who are affected by it.

We again say that we shall be always pleased to publish any timely and reasonable communication on this subject, where facts are given.

The Earl Fruit Company was seen this week in regard to the statement that extremely low prices were realized on oranges shipped by them last season. Permission was given to copy from the books of the company the following figures, showing the result of the season's shipments at Azusa, Colton, Highlands and Redlands. The prices are given in each case, the average price f.o.b., to the growers, less the cost of packing and commission.

The quotations are for regular sizes. The off sizes have been sold at proportionately reduced rates:

Azusa—
22 boxes Washington navels... $2.13
406 boxes Australian navels.... 1.70
305 boxes seedling..... 1.11
529 Mediterranean sweets..... 1.64
1406 boxes Malta blood..... 1.99

Colton—
3022 boxes Washington navels... $2.57
388 boxes St. Michaels..... 2.41
4056 seedlings..... 1.61
3018 boxes Mediterranean sweets..... 1.82
308 boxes Malta blood..... 2.66

Highlands—
1106 boxes Washington navels... $2.82
1872 boxes Mediterranean sweets.... 1.85
4218 boxes seedlings..... 1.75
125 boxes St. Michaels..... 2.40

Redlands—
5055 boxes Washington navels... $2.64
8171 boxes seedlings..... 1.67
1136 boxes Mediterranean sweets 1.99
614 boxes St. Michaels..... 2.48

The figures for Riverside had not been prepared, but range about the same as the prices at other points. Considering the very poor market which has ruled during the past season, it cannot be said that these prices are, as a rule, unsatisfactory. It remains to be seen what the growers' organization will accomplish during the coming season.

The Duty on Fruit.

The State Board of Trade and the fruit-growers' Association have been considering how the interests of California can be best furthered under the tariff measure which is being prepared at Washington. The committee, appointed at a convention which was held in San Francisco in July, prepared an elaborate brief, in which the facts, figures and arguments in support of protection for our California products were fully set forth. It was the plan of the convention to send a personal representative to present and enforce these arguments, and Gen. Chipman of Red Bluff was named as the delegate. The funds necessary to carry out this project have not been forthcoming. Gen. Chipman has, however, prepared a complete argument to be submitted to the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives. This brief was the principal subject of discussion at the recent meeting.

At this meeting in San Francisco, John P. Irish was suggested as a delegate to go to Washington, but the growers seemed to think that it would be better to send somebody who was better versed in agricultural matters, and appointed a committee of three to secure the services of such a person. The committee consists of G. J. Griffith of Los Angeles, E. W. Maslin and B. Lelang.

One fruit product—crystallized fruit—is especially worth of protection; firstly, because it is essentially a luxury, and, secondly, because labor enters so largely into its cost.

That Fumigating Patent.

As reported in The Times, the district attorneys of Southern California counties have decided to combine in defending a suit which has been brought by the proprietors of a patent treatment of trees, for infringement of their patent. Some time ago the Los Angeles county supervisors were advised that the county had a right to use the tents, as the process was not patentable.

Apparently the only difference between this process and others of similar kind is that the light is excluded when it is used. The gas has been used for a similar purpose by others, but always damaged the foliage and fruit, until the system of excluding the light was adopted. It seems, however, that the patentees should not have been entitled to the credit of first discovering the process. Prof. Coquillette claims to have succeeded in the production and use and publication of that process. Such being the case, the district attorneys of the Southern California counties expect to be able to defeat the patentees without much trouble.

The Sweet Olive.

(Watsonville Pajaronian) A correspondent of the Santa Cruz Surf inquires if the sweet olive is cultivated in California. Some years ago the Marysville Appeal published an article on the sweet olive of the Grecian Isles, and the writer declared it the most palatable of olives. This article attracted the attention of James Waters, the local nurseryman, who wrote:

"Your correspondent concerning this much-praised fruit. He received a reply giving place where trees could be obtained, and he wrote the United States Consul at that port, and interested him in the matter. In time a shipment of sweet olives arrived."

In summing up the results of his trip through the northern part of the State, and in giving his impressions of the wine industry, as he found it, Mr. Gos gives the growers of the State some points which are not to be lightly considered, when it is remembered that he is one of the leading viticulturists of the day, and a wine expert whose judgment is universally received.

A reporter of the Call Mr. Gos said:

"Your soil and your climate are well adapted to the growing of the finest grapes in the world. The progress you have made in the comparatively few years that have elapsed since you made a beginning in the industry are simply wonderful, and, as I have said before to you, the scale on which you do things and the method that prevails all through your work is a complete surprise to me."

"But there are many things connected with the science of wine-making which you have not yet learned. France, with her hundreds of years of experience, has but little to fear from you for some years so far as the manufacture of 'grand vin' is concerned."

"But there is one thing that surprises me very much, and that is that your vineyardists have not profited by the experience of the French in grafting your vines on resistant stocks. All Europe learned that lesson, when the phylloxera, which was also imported from America, attacked their vineyards and the vines of France, Italy, Austria and Gaul, mainly from the effects of its attacks, and your vines, which are all imported stock, are beginning to go the same way."

"The phylloxera is a microscope insect which attacks the roots of the vine, and when it gets into the vine, it starts a sort of cancerous growth which eventually kills the vine. It was brought from here originally, when our people were experimenting with various stocks, and it went through the vineyards of the continent and the rest of the world, and every vine family for a few years, and every vineyard had to be started anew."

"To find a remedy was a problem which was long in solving, until we found that there were some of your varieties of wild grape which did not seem to attack the phylloxera. Then came the difficulty in finding a stock that was suitable to the soil, and one which was good in itself. Of probably two hundred varieties of wild grape, possibly a few—a very few—are valuable for the purpose of grafting upon, and are still working on this, and that is part of my mission to the United States."

"After it was found that the American stock was not subject to the attacks of the pest, we had to find out the nature of the stock to the soil, to the variety that was to be grafted upon it, and a thousand things that had to be learned by the failures that preceded.

"Orange-growers in Florida succeeded in selling over half of their product at home last year and many are hopeful that the proportion of home sales may be greatly increased for the present crop. Some growers advocate a firm stand in refusing to consign fruit exported through the Florida Fruit Exchange."

"A single orange grove near De Land, Florida (the Huist property) is estimated to yield 30,000 boxes of fruit this year."

The Nursery Business.

The following communications have been received on the subject of reliable nurserymen the existence of whom was questioned by a recent correspondent:

DISHONESTY THE EXCEPTION, RIVERSIDE, Oct. 14, 1893.—(To the Editor of The Times.) Noticing your remarks in The Times of recent date, relating to reliable nurserymen, and the remarks of a correspondent thereon, questioning if there are any reliable nurserymen, and also noticing your inquiry to me, as to the name of a reliable nurseryman, I find the trouble complained of by your correspondent in regard to the name being untrue to name is not confined to this State, neither does it arise in the majority of cases from nurserymen being dishonest.

O. M. MORRIS.
EXPERIENCE NEEDED.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21.—(To the Agricultural Editor of The Times.) Please permit me to make a short statement in reply to a letter in a late issue of your paper, in which you called as agent for a wholesale nursery over a large scope of country, and talked with many orchardists and nurserymen, I find the trouble complained of by your correspondent in regard to the name being untrue to name is not confined to this State, neither does it arise in the majority of cases from nurserymen being dishonest.

"After losing many trees from this cause, I discovered that the ravages of the blight were confined almost exclusively to the orchard under cultivation, while the trees that had grown in sod for years were entirely exempt. The discovery led me to believe that there must be some association between the cultivation of the trees and the blight. After a great deal of trial and much investigation I have reached the conclusion that the cultivation of trees stimulates a rank growth of new wood which furnishes an inviting food for the propagation of the fungus. This immature growth of new wood is peculiarly susceptible to the development of the fungus which attacks the trees during moist sultry weather in summer; but its deadly work is not manifest until the summer following, when the blighted leaves and black branches appear. If manure has been applied to the orchard under cultivation the blight is intensified and the result most fatal.

"With this discovery I have ceased to cultivate my pear trees, and the good result have been marked, for with an occasional blighted limb, which is promptly removed and burned, my trees have almost escaped the dreaded scourge."

Another grower of experience writes as follows:

"In my experience of thirty-five years of cultivating the pear, I have tried all the remedies that I ever heard suggested and all that I could originate myself;

have applied lime, ashes, salt, copperas and various compounds to the soil, but I have found but one remedy that did much good. In ordinary instances the immediate removal of the dead or affected branches will prove a success. The amputation should be made several feet below the affected part, and the poison passes downward some time before its effects are visible externally. To guard against disease, plant only such varieties as are known to be seldom affected.

"There are another class known as dealers, who engage in the sale of nursery stock, and who depend for their supply of trees upon job-lots, which they buy here and there, at a low figure, to sell again. They require very little knowledge of the nursery business, and usually possess none.

"The question for the planter to decide is whether it is best for him to buy his stock direct from a grower of established reputation, or hunt about for something cheaper.

Pear Blight.

A. T. McElvey, an experienced pear-grower, writes to the Ohio Farmer that cultivation invites and intensifies pear blight. In this connection he relates his experience.

"After losing many trees from this cause, I discovered that the ravages of the blight were confined almost exclusively to the orchard under cultivation, while the trees that had grown in sod for years were entirely exempt. The discovery led me to believe that there must be some association between the cultivation of the trees and the blight. JEROME CALDWELL.

The Bug Question.

THE PALMS, Oct. 18, 1893.—(Agricultural Editor of The Times.) We are continually being reminded of the incompetency of certain members of the State Board of Horticulture, and, although this very unpleasant state of affairs has existed for a considerable length of time, much to the disgrace of the whole State, particularly nothing satisfactory has been accomplished save an increased lack of confidence in the State board by those who naturally look to them for information.

The continued attacks by certain men in Southern California against the State board, and the manner in which the board has antagonized Southern California, has not been productive of any great good to the interest of horticulture in this State and it is high time that something was done to overcome the estrangement that has arisen.

May the time speedily come when the energy and time that have hitherto been devoted almost exclusively to antagonizing the State board and our own horticultural commissioner, be used in a united effort to rid the county of the injurious insects that are preying upon
